

ABOUT RACHEL

Rachel is the Programs & Communications support for CPEP. She assists the Program Managers, manages the organization's online presence, and is the overall communications liaison between CPEP and the community.

She loves to have knowledge in many different areas, and her diverse employment history has gained her skills in community relations, research, event planning, program management and network administration.

Rachel is fascinated by human growth and development and the factors that influence it. She enjoys learning about different cultures and working with CPEP to bring opportunities to the underrepresented youth.

Rachel has an Associates in Science from Tunxis Community College. In her spare time, you will find her exploring the world, trying out a new recipe, reading, giving back to the community, or catching up with family and friends.
